Re: Statement on the Clean Energy for America Act

Date: April 23, 2021

Washington, D.C. — The following statement may be attributed to Daniel Hogan, CEO of The Association of Union Constructors:

“The Association of Union Constructors (TAUC) applauds Senator Wyden and his colleagues for their leadership in introducing the Clean Energy for America Act. TAUC members, working with our building and construction trades union partners, provide our clients in the energy sector with the infrastructure necessary to meet the nation’s evolving power generation needs. By requiring energy infrastructure projects that receive taxpayer assistance to comply with federal prevailing-wage requirements and utilize registered apprentices, this legislation will ensure that TAUC members can remain competitive in delivering high-quality safe construction services and project outcomes for their clients.”

About The Association of Union Constructors

TAUC is the largest multi-craft union contractor association in the nation, representing over 1,800 union construction firms engaged in providing safe, high-quality industrial construction and maintenance services to our customers. Our mission is to serve as an advocate for signatory contractors who utilize union labor and to enhance cooperation between the three entities involved in the successful completion of construction and industrial maintenance projects: the contractor, the building trades unions, and the owner-client (the company for which the work is being completed). This “tripartite dialogue,” facilitated by TAUC, delivers the cost-effective, high-quality construction demanded by our members’ customers.
